Dominion Government To Aid The Settlers.

We received the following wire yesterday from Mr. Nelson Spencer, M.L.A., who for the past week has been in consultation with the authorities at Ottawa, making arrangements for the relief of settlers in the drought-stricken area.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Assure Settlers that Dominion Government will take care actual needs during coming winter. Also sell no brood stock.—NELSON SPENCER.

Government Aid The Kaiser's Big Undertaking.

Ottawa, August 19.—After a conference today with Hon. Robert Rogers R. B. Bennett, M.P., and Commissioner Pery, of the mounted police, Bruce Walker, of the immigration department, Winnipeg, left for the west to put into effect the government's scheme for the relief of settlers who suffered from crop failure this year. The area affected by the crop failure will be divided into five districts, and an officer will be placed in charge of each district, who will provide for all who need assistance.

The intention of the government is to protect the settlers from want or hardship. To enable them to continue farming operations next year, provision will be made for settlers to retain their stock. Already settlers have been warned to secure hay, and where this is impossible, to send their stock to districts where there is good grazing or ample straw and chaff from threshing. Where either of these courses is impossible, the government will furnish hay.

Work of relief will commence at once, and no efforts will be spared to protect the settlers. The mounted police will co-operate with the government in the work of relief.

$50,000 will Be Spent on Roads.

Achie McLean, M.P.P., and Mr. Spiers, immigration commissioner for the Dominion Government were in Bow Island on Monday, making further enquiries as to what amount of assistance would be required by those who are in needy circumstances.

Mr. McLean stated that the Provincial Government is fully aware of the unfortunate circumstances prevailing in the south country, and was doing its utmost to relieve the situation. It had been already decided to spend $50,000 in those districts where the money was most needed; this amount to be expended principally upon road-work. Only married men would be employed, it being considered that the single men could seek work elsewhere.

The Provincial government had also made arrangements with the railway companies by which oats, barley and hay could be shipped in at half the usual rate to farmers only.

The Dominion Government, Mr. Spiers informed us, would undertake to find provisions for needy farmers and feed for their stock during the winter. The authorities would also provide seed grain in the spring. The policy of the Dominion government, Mr. Spiers stated, is, and always has been, to see that its settlers were permanently established upon the land, and it was doing all it possibly could to make conditions easier in the west, yet it expected the settlers, upon their part, to meet the situation, firmly and fairly and assist each other as far as they possibly could.

STRAY TOPICS.

If it is right that actions speak louder than words, then my Lord Kitchener is making a heap of noise for a silent man.

Patriotism runs high in Serbia. The enemies are helping that bandits in the ranks and even the babies are in arms. Great kiddies, the Serbs.

The Kaiser's Big Undertaking.

The Scientific American, in an able editorial upon the war, likens the Kaiser to Napoleon, and forebodes a second Waterloo.

Upon Germany, then, will fall the stupendous task of inflicting a decisive defeat upon the combined armies of France, Russia, Great Britain, Belgium and Holland, and as seems not unlikely, of Denmark also. And as if this were not enough, Germany has boldly flung the gauntlet in the face of the greatest naval power the world has ever seen—a power as pre-eminent upon the Seven Seas as is her army on the European continent.

The hope of success for Germany depends upon the quick accomplishment of two stupendous tasks: First—a defeat of the combined British and French fleets so overwhelming as to give to Germany the complete control of the sea; and second, the launching of the flower of her army against the French in an attack so swift in movement and so overwhelming in numbers, as to crumple up and break through the defense and enable the German army to repeat the triumph of 1871, and march as conquerors through the boulevards of Paris!

This would leave her free to strike with a like swift and concentration at Russia; and with the diversion introduced by an Austrian advance into Russia to the eastward, she would seek to fight her way resolutely through the Russian defenses and capture St. Petersburg.

But to swiftly concentrate an army of the enormous size necessary for an overwhelming defeat of the French defense, it was necessary to violate the neutrality of a friendly nation, and, so, to the calamity of the Italian defection has been added the burden of a war with the combined forces of Great Britain, Belgium and Holland.

If, as is probable, the German fleet is crushed or driven under the shelter of its seacoast fortifications, and shut up there for the rest of the war, Germany will be so absolutely blockaded that not a pound of foodstuff will find its way into her dominions. She is not self-supporting, and Austria will be hard put to it to feed her own armies and people.

The Triple Entente, on the other hand, having command of the seas, will be able to call upon the markets of the world for supplies.

Should the Turin win, he will hold all Europe in his "nailed fist," and the flag of his ships of war and commerce will float undisturbed upon the Seven Seas.

Should Germany go down to absolute and crushing defeat on land and sea, the terms of peace will involve as a guarantee of peace, the upbuilding of another such vast military organization, the break up of the German Confederation, and Germany's magnificent naval and commercial fleets, to say nothing of her foreign colonies, will have been wiped off the face of the earth.

Had Germany shown a less ruthless spirit in flinging herself against the rest of Europe in a defiance so bold as to appear almost contemptuous, she might hope, in the event of disaster, for reasonable terms in the great final accounting. As it is, Europe, if victorious, will take a heavy toll.

Late Bulletins.

Belgian Army falls back towards Antwerp.
Brussels Prepares to Surrender to Germans.
Belgium Has Most Nobly Done Its Duty.

The following information was given out by the official information bureau this afternoon: "The Belgian field army confronted by superior numbers, has fallen back. The Belgian troops have admirably performed their duty in delaying hostile advance and enabling their allies to complete their concentration."

London, Aug. 20.—A despatch to the Star from Brussels says the German occupation of Brussels is imminent. The Burgomaster of the Belgian capital has ordered the civic guards to disarm.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Re-occupation of Mulhausen, Alsace, by French troops is announced officially here to-day.

The re-capture of Mulhausen was preceded by a very fierce battle during which the French troops took one of the suburbs at the point of the bayonet. They also took as the result of their victory, six German cannons and six ammunition wagons.

Russians Begin to Press Forward.

London, Aug. 20.—At noon Monday, an Austrian cavalry division with artillery and machine guns reached the town of Kuzmin, where they engaged Russian cavalry. After stubborn fighting, which lasted until 7 in the evening, the Austrians were beaten back with heavy casualties.

Russian troops, occupied Gumbinnen, 20 miles from the Russian frontier of east Prussia, capturing at the same time twelve German guns and a large number of prisoners.

Attempt to Blow Up Lethbridge Bridge.

Lethbridge, Aug. 18.—What looks like an attempt to blow up one of the trestles of the big C.P.R. bridge over the Belly river was frustrated by the discovery of twenty-three logs of blasting powder late last night in a deserted shack in its vicinity.

A man named Herman Weismuir, has been arrested on suspicion of being connected with the same. The powder was stolen from the magazine of the Chinook Collieries late yesterday.

Weismuir, when arrested was waiting the Belly river towards the shack where the powder was concealed. He has been remanded for eight days.

HERE KIDDIES SMILE IN KEWPIE STYLE

HERE they are! A whole row of them as smiling and cute as Miss O'Neill's kewpies. Unlike the kewpies, these kiddies are clothed in something besides a smile. No matter where the midsummer vacation is passed—at the mountains, in the country, by the seashore or quietly at home—these are the suits and dresses the kiddies will wear. The quaint Kate Greenaway clothes for both boys and girls are favored again by fickle fashion. The shy little chap at the extreme left is clothed in one of them. The tiny blouse is made of white lawn, ruffled, as to collar and sleeves and cuffs, while the little white plique trousers are studiously buttoned to it with large ornamental pearl buttons. There is no rubber in the bottoms of the trousers to tease the little man's fat legs.

The jaunty little maiden next to him also is clothed according to the Kate Greenaway idea. The high waist line and puffed sleeves of hand embroidered voile is particularly charming for a party gown. The short waist is held in place by a cording of taffeta; the square cut neck is outlined by a banding of fine hand embroidery. The cor maid pictured next to the Kate Greenaway maiden is attired in one of the popular blouse gowns. For the wear of these gowns are used quite as much as the Kate Greenaway models. As pictured here it was built of figured baize trimmed with real valenciennes elaine. The tiny skirt is cut on the bias and ripples prettily from under the overhanging blouse. There is a sash of tulle to match the pink roses in the material, and the white socks are also pink striped. The nifty little hat is made of pink taffeta and bears out in the back like a dreamer's helmet. The crown is softly gathered, and the band around it is prettily finished by bowties made of the silk. The gown pictured next to the figured baize is of pearl colored linen trimmed with old blue linen bands with a double cording of tulle. The belt suspenders, collar and cuffs are of the blue. The suspenders are buttoned on the front and back with large white mother-of-pearl buttons. The skirt is attached to the long waist and is arranged in large box plaits.

Next comes an absolutely unique development of a boy's suit. The material is of blue flannel. Blouse and trousers are buttoned together in Kate Greenaway fashion. With white collar, cuffs and tie the suit is quite all right for any occasion, but with these things removed it resolves itself into a perfectly good bathing suit. Such a suit would be invaluable at the seashore. The last smiling kiddie in the row is wearing a somewhat modified Kate Greenaway frock. This gown is built of figured baize. The kimono sleeves and yoke are edgily outlined with bands of valenciennes insertion and shaped ruffles of silk. The skirt seems a trifle scant, but some mothers like these severely plain skirts.

FASHION IN GLOVES

IN Paris and London well dressed women never go out of the house in the daytime ungloved. In Paris, however, the fashion of leaving gloves off for evening still prevails. In London gloves are worn to the opera.

For morning wear, the chambray or doekmanish glove with one or two large buttons is the proper thing. There is really the better fabric of the two, as it warms well.

For more dressy wear with tailored suits rather heavy kids in white or delicate biscuit color are popular. They are made with two buttons. For full dress wear made in used almost exclusively, and the newest craze is for the biscuit colored mesh gloves which fit the arms loosely. To Americans who are used to a certain tightness at the wrist, these loose-fitting gloves may appear unattractive, but it is French, and like all things foreign, it has a certain fascination on a pretty hand and arm.

The Sleeping Porch Fad

IT is quite true that the American people have been and are at times subject to the craziest fads ever heard of, but among the many untold fads adopted in our country there occur occasionally one or two which prove of general benefit to mankind. One which has become very popular in the past five years and is of especial value is the sleeping porch.

Until recently no one ever heard of sleeping in the open except in the case of consumptive campers. Then a short white ago some one had a flash of genius and asked if sleeping in the open were good for consumptives why was it not good for persons in normal health.

Gradually as the craze was accepted and slowly spread men and women all over the country began to utilize the tops of their verandas and all odd little porches for sleeping purposes.

After awhile the wealthier followers of the fad started to build sleeping porches to their homes. These were constructed more or less like ordinary rooms, with heavy roofs and walls, but the upper half of these walls was left open. The fittings in some of these outdoor rooms are as beautiful as those in any of the indoor rooms.

The benefit of this fad is so patent that it seems almost unnecessary to explain wherein it lies. To breathe the free, unadulterated air all night long is the most strengthening way to sleep, and it is safe to assert that no child brought up in a sleeping porch will ever have a tendency to weak lungs.

Young children who are unaccustomed to sleeping in the open should be started on their sleeping porch careers in the hottest weather and gradually worked up to the winter weather. In this way they become accustomed to the gradually increasing cold, and, far from being dangerous for them, to sleep in the open, it is highly healthful, but only under the above mentioned conditions. To put a young boy out on a sleeping porch for a cold night without any previous experience is quite enough to kill it.

Every suburbanite and country mother should form the sleeping porch habit for herself and her children during the summer months. No matter how small a cottage the home may be, it is sure to have some kind of porch which can be utilized for this purpose. For the city dweller, unluckily, the sleeping porch is an unachievable goal unless one happens to have the means to own a house. A great many of the brownstone houses have porches in the rear, usually on the third or fourth story. These can be utilized in the manner described by the owner of the house if it be a private home or by the occupant of the room if the house is let off in sections to outsiders. The uncovered porch is rather a disturbing place on account of possible rain, which may drench bedclothes and not but if our readers care to chance it they can easily protect their bedding from the wet by spreading large sheets of oilcloth over their cots. Then if they are awakened by rain pattering on their faces two minutes time will find them safe indoors with their cots perfectly dry.

Willow Table Lamp

THE value for window furnishings I still continue, and, from chair, settees and bookcases, extend even to lamps and candlesticks. The lamp is furnished here is to be fitted for electric lights.

TUNICS AND GIRDLES.

Tunics of net and lace which fall in points are edged with some colored silk and the deep center is often edged by a second colored sash tied about the knees. In one gown of white net a deep circle of Roman striped ribbon tied in the back in a gigantic Japanese bow rubricated accents all our traditions, and in another a bolero of tulle lace quite plain. The lingerie gown of 1914 has got to be washed up. Very often the embroidery of net or baize or organdie is in color, as for instance, on an 1898 frock whose rustled skirt and cuffs are brought out by blue needlework.

DEMIJOHNS FOR LAMPS

A COUPLE of wicker covered demi-johns are going to do duty this summer in a seashore bungalow as the bases of lamps. One of them received only a thorough cleaning before being pressed into service, and the other was treated to a coat of brown enamel paint. On the light one has the summer spreading wicker shade and on the brown a Japanese openwork shade lined with a yellow flowered chintz. The latter will stand in the general living room, which is done in brown and buff, and the former will illumine the veranda from a wicker table at the window.

Hand Ties Like Summer Fields Abloom

Chic Outing Blouse a Summer Standby

WORN with a tailored suit and a jaunty hat the crepe de chine blouse this season is called into constant service, being ever useful and always ornamental. An attractive blouse of pink crepe de chine is this one with its long row of white ball buttons.

THE HOMESTEAD LAW MORE LENIENT.

Homesteaders who have endeavored to fulfill their residence and cultivation duties and who, on account of the present conditions in the drought-stricken area, find it necessary to go into other sections of the country to secure work will be given every leniency by the Department of the Interior.

Such homesteaders and absenting themselves from their homesteads for any protracted period should apply through the local Dominion Lands Agency for protection covering the period they expect to be absent.

Such application should be made under the form of a statutory declaration taken at the Agency of Dominion Lands, at any Sub-Agency, before a Homestead Inspector, a Commissioner of Oaths, or a Justice of the Peace, of the Province in which the declaration is made. All such declarations should contain a statement of the amount of residence duties done from date of entry to date of declaration, and also a statement of the amount of cultivation duties performed, and the time when such were done.

Statutory Declaration Forms can be secured free from the Agent of Dominion Lands either by mail or at the office of the Agency, or from any Sub-Agency.

A PLEA FOR GREATER TOLERATION.

A feature of the present situation is that we have living with us, and playing an honorable part in our civic business and national life, a large number of Germans whose sympathies may not unreasonably be with the country of their origin, in these times of stress. It behooves them, though, to refrain from any expressions and actions that may be construed as offensive, and it is also meant that all citizens of British origin should be careful to avoid anything that might tend to make their presence here uncomfortable. Although their fatherland is at war, they are yet our friends and neighbors and deserve treatment as such. This is Canada's country, however, and if those whose sympathies are with the Kaiser resort in any way to the display of patriotism on the part of Canadians, it will be wise for them to keep such resentment carefully locked away from the light of public scrutiny. Canadians, after all, are only human.—Calgary News-Telegram.

MUST GUARD AGAINST ENEMIES FROM WITHIN.

Following hard upon the attempts to wreck trains and the other suspicious actions of Germans in different parts of Canada, the vain effort to destroy the docks at Point Levis being made forcibly to the people of the Dominion the fact that from now on no chances should be taken. Great Britain is at war, and Canada, apparently, is not to be immune from the hovever attendant upon hostilities within the empire. From now on, therefore, a careful system of espionage should be instituted and every precaution taken to guard against destruction.

It is quite impossible to tell what vein of fanaticism may be struck, and what crime some ill-balanced person might commit under cover of the excitement that at present prevails. There are thousands of Germans in Canada, and even though the great majority may be among the best subjects of Great Britain, there is always the chance of some sympathizer of the Kaiser taking it into his head to strike a blow for his country.

Distribution of Rams and Boars by the Federal Department of Agriculture.

As the distribution of pure bred stallions and bulls, 125 and 414 of which respectively have been located in different parts of the Dominion, has now been completed for the current year, it is announced that the Live Stock Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture will distribute a further distribution of pure bred rams and boars during the months of August, September and October next, to associations of farmers organized in districts in which the service of satisfactory breeding animals in those classes are not already available. Applications (a large number of which have already been received) for rams and boars should be made at an early date, as it will not be possible to consider those that are not made prior to October 1st. Farmers desiring to secure the services of such stock should arrange to organize an association in their district and forward their application to the Live Stock Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, from whom application blanks and all information with respect to the conditions under which pure bred sires are to be distributed, may be obtained. Letters addressed to the Department do not require postage.

War—Girls to the Front!

The All-American Girls will come to the front and play a game of baseball against the local nine of Bow Island, on Monday, August 24th at 4 p.m. This club of young girls are said to be one of the strongest clubs of its kind on the coast. The feature attraction is Miss Maud Nelson, the champion Lady Pitcher of the World. This is the same club that played Medicine Hat and Lethbridge some few weeks ago, and left such a good reputation behind them. It will be one of the greatest games of the season and everybody should turn out and see this club perform. The game will be played on the local diamond at Bow Island on Monday next. Come out and forget your troubles. This will be the last game of the season, and the girls won't be back for some time so don't miss it.

HOW TO DETERMINE THE AGE OF EGGS.

Government Distributing Appliances Free.

Few consumers appreciate the fact that the quality of an egg can be accurately determined without breaking the shell. It is not generally known that an egg appears semi-transparent when held before the light in a dark room, and that if it is carefully rated, even minor defects may be seen. Pamphlets dealing with this matter have been prepared, and illustrations included showing in detail the characteristic appearance of both good and bad eggs when being candled. These, together with simple, convenient cardboard egg candling appliances may be obtained upon request of the Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa.

The candling of eggs is not a difficult process. It requires but little skill to tell at a glance the difference between good and bad eggs and any one with practice can learn with familiarity about the various grades of good eggs.

Storekeepers will find it to their advantage to acquire facility in candling and it is recommended that every housewife should provide herself with one of these simple candling appliances, by the diligent use of which she may safeguard her family from many unpleasant occurrences at the breakfast table.

The Kaiser in his attempt at Napoleonism is starting at the wrong end. Napoleon began with a revolution and ended at Waterloo; the Kaiser begins a Waterloo and threatens to end with a revolution.

In spite of drought many farmers in this locality are harvesting, and obtaining from five to fifteen bushels to the acre. These fortunate ones are few but the mere fact that a crop has been raised in such a year is an eloquent tribute to the productivity of the soil in the district.

Messrs. G. H. Ridgdale, E.W. Luckhardt, J. W. Reid and G. W. McMann returned from their fishing trip on Sunday last with stories of some big catches. These bear some semblance of truth is quite evident from the fact that quite a number of citizens were busy for a day or two sorting out the bones. The next trip of these sons of the rod will be eagerly awaited.
